

PERSONALITY OF THE MONTH

JOSEPH EBO
DADSON

AMA DUFIE
OPARE

SYLVESTER
STEVENS

REBECCA
BAAH KUMI

STEPHANIE
OWUSU ANKOMAH

JUNE EDITION

SYLVESTER
STEVENS

AMA DUFIE
OPARE

STEPHANIE OWUSU ANKOMAH

JOSEPH EBO
DADSON

REBECCA BAAH KUMI

Bemah: What inspired your city to host the nugs-russia congress in stavropol this year?

The Team: Stavropol's decision to host the NUGS-RUSSIA congress was driven by a blend of rich cultural heritage, a vibrant student community, and a proven track record in hosting large-scale events. This city, with its dynamic infrastructure and deep-rooted traditions, is the perfect backdrop for fostering academic and cultural exchange on a grand stage.

How did you feel when stavropol was chosen to organize the congress?

Bemah: How did you feel when stavropol was chosen to organize the congress?

The Team: The announcement brought a wave of excitement and a profound sense of responsibility. The chance to highlight Stavropol on a national stage was exhilarating, even as we recognized the challenges ahead. The blend of anticipation and determination fueled our commitment to making this event unforgettable.

Bemah: Could you describe the preparations for organizing this congress?

The Team: Organizing the congress has been a journey marked by meticulous planning and strategic milestones:

- Questionnaire Creation: We designed comprehensive questionnaires to understand attendees' needs, from travel plans to accommodation preferences.

- Organizing Committee Formation: A dedicated team was assembled to manage various facets of the event, including city representatives to ensure smooth logistics and a seamless experience for all attendees.

- Venue Selection: Prime locations were secured for sessions, workshops, and social events.

- Budget Planning: Financial resources were meticulously allocated to ensure efficient spending.

- Promotion: Dynamic marketing campaigns were launched to attract a broad audience.

Bemah: How have you involved local stakeholders and the community?

The Team: We've engaged with community groups, raising awareness and encouraging participation. This collaboration has been vital in garnering local support and ensuring the event's success.

Bemah: What logistical arrangements have been made for attendees?

The Team: Key logistical preparations include:

- Accommodations: Partnering with local apartments and hostels to offer affordable lodging.

- Event Venues: Securing and preparing various locations for sessions and activities.

Bemah: How have you promoted the congress to ensure maximum participation?

The Team: We've leveraged multiple communication channels:

- Social Media: Dynamic campaigns on various platforms.
- Newsletters and Emails: Targeted outreach to potential attendees.
- Collaborations: Working with student associations to amplify our message.

Bemah: How are the students responding to the upcoming congress?

The Team: The response has been overwhelmingly positive. While a few attendees remain uncertain, the overall enthusiasm suggests a successful and well-attended event.

Bemah: What activities or sessions are you most excited about?

The Team: We're particularly excited about the social events, including the much-anticipated Shaslik dinner, which promises to be a highlight of the congress.

Bemah: What do you hope to achieve by hosting the congress in Stavropol this year?

The Team: Our goal is to inspire smaller cities, demonstrating that with determination and belief in their strengths, they too can host successful events. Stavropol's example aims to spark a wave of confidence and ambition.

Bemah: Are there plans for the congress to evolve in the coming years?

The Team: Absolutely. We aim to build on this year's success, hosting larger and more impactful congresses in the future, potentially expanding to include students from other countries. The vision is for a growing, inclusive, and dynamic congress that continues to break new ground.

